

Case Study 3: Energy Savings with our strategic partnership.

It is very difficult to predict energy costs in the current climate as both electricity and gas prices have increased sharply in the last 12 months. Whilst there have been recent falls in prices, the market is still very volatile.

The emphasis is therefore to ensure that you pay as little as possible for the energy you use and to keep any increases to a minimum.

Regardless of the size of your electricity and gas supply - whether half hourly, monthly or quarterly metered - your business can save money by going out to tender for your supply. Prices are continually changing and it can be beneficial to test the market regularly.

For the past year, the company has been pleased to promote an energy tariff management service to all members through nominated supplier. Many of the company's licensed sector members have since made use of this service, saving hundreds, if not thousands of pounds in the process.

For example:

Public House, Marlow - Annual Savings of 24% or £3817
Public House, London SE1 - Annual Savings of 29% or £2574
Public House, Oxfordshire - Annual Savings of 20% or £762

Part of the service provided by Finesse when reviewing member's electricity and gas prices is to check that the correct level of government taxes are being charged. Finesse has just helped one care home in Southport to recover £10000 in overcharged VAT and Climate Change Levy.
